Follow a Farmer: July Activities

In late June we wrapped up a successful strawberry season with lots of happy customers. After a two-week break, we started our next harvest, blueberries!

This summer our farm and others in our area have been really dry until recent rains in the last week. Before the rain came, we had to irrigate our fruit crops using our on-farm ponds. Luckily, it rained 4 days in a row and most areas received 4-5 inches of much needed rain! The field crops have really jumped up since then. Unfortunately, we have had some green snap (breakage of stalks) on our corn from storms and high winds. About 25% was damaged. Although this is not what anyone ever wants, we are grateful that it wasn't worse.

Blueberries season started in late June and ended around the middle of July. For blueberries we take orders for pre-picked berries that are filled by our team of pickers and are open for U-pickers as well. We have concluded that the crop was definitely smaller this year.

We suspect that we lost some berries to winter cold, spring pollination issues due to cold and rainy weather, and wind damage in recent storms. Up next, we have our blackberry and peach seasons. We have a smaller number of blackberry plants, so picking and orders for these is done ahead of time and is limited. The blackberries look like they suffered some of the same issues as the blueberries, but thankfully the peach crop looks fairly normal. We have several varieties of freestone peaches that will begin ripening around the last week of July and beginning of August. Around the farm, we are keeping busy with spraying for Japanese beetles, mowing, weeding, and general maintenance. Until next time!

The Pollinators of DuPage BioBlitz

Monarch butterflies begin their astonishing migration south in late summer and will be flying through DuPage during the last week of August. DuPage Monarch Project is sponsoring The Pollinators of DuPage BioBlitz Aug 20 -28 to learn where monarchs are stopping and which flowers they're feeding on. Monarchs require large amounts of nectar during the journey and knowing which flowers they prefer improves the conservation areas planted for them.

Download iNaturalist on a smartphone, make a few practice observations of plants, bees and butterflies, then head out to a favorite garden, park or preserve and discover the pollinators of DuPage.

Take a walk in a park and save a monarch butterfly!

Illinois AGRICULTURE in the ClassroomSM

Kristina Baumbach
Education Coordinator
DuPage County Farm Bureau

Ag in the Classroom is a free program that visits DuPage schools to teach the importance of agriculture. The lessons can be adjusted for all age levels and meet learning standards. We would also be happy to be a part of community events that relate to our agricultural literacy program vision and goals. Virtual options are available.

For more information contact:
duplicateit@dcbf.org or 630-668-8161.

June's Numbers:

997 students • 30 teachers • #1 Lesson Topic: Baseball
End of AITC Year total: 49,215

Teacher Quote about an AITC Visit:

"It was wonderful for my students to connect with lessons that could be applied outside of the classroom. I loved this program. I was part of Florida Ag in the Classroom when I taught in Florida."
– Westmore Elementary teacher, 2nd Grade

And that's a wrap on the 2021-2022 Ag in the Classroom year! Thank you to everyone who participated in, volunteered, and donated to our program. This year we reached a record number of students through live programs, ag bags, and video views. In June we ended our school lessons teaching about baseball and how the game relates to agriculture. Students learned about animal by-products used in the game, food items, and natural resources. As we kicked off the start of summer, Kristina has been busy hosting summer programs at libraries, park districts, and summer camps teaching students of all ages about various agriculture topics!

Agriscience Summer School

This year AITC had the unique opportunity to work with the Naperville CUSD 203 and 204 agriculture teachers to create an agriscience summer school program for local Junior High students. The course ran 3 weeks in June and focused on plant science, food science, and animal science. Each week students learned about these topics, did multiple hands-on projects, and visited local agriculture facilities. Kristina led a full day of livestock lessons featuring topics on animal by-products, livestock care, selective breeding, and nutrition. Denise Hall also visited and spoke about animal science career opportunities. 19 students participated in the program. We hope that the students enjoyed learning about agriculture and will consider enrolling in agriculture courses when they reach high school!

Back to School

We're excited to announce that our team will be returning to in-person lessons this fall! After two full years of teaching virtually, we can't wait to get face to face with our students again. We will still be offering virtual visits, if need be, and our virtual resources can always be accessed on the DCFB website and YouTube channel. Ag Bags and Ag Mags are available to teachers looking for resources without a visit. If you are a teacher looking to add an AITC lesson or resources to your curriculum this year, contact Kristina at duplicateit@dcbf.org for information and scheduling.

Supply Donations

AITC will be collecting supply donations at our office (M-F 8:30am-4pm) and the Membership Appreciation Dinner. Thank you to everyone who continues to help our programming through your generous donations! Our staff, teachers, and students greatly appreciate your generosity. The Farmer's Almanac Predictions – August 2022

Sky Watch: With the famous Perseid meteor shower ruined by a full Moon, this month's spotlight remains on the planets with Saturn's earlier 10 P.M. rising offering viewing opportunities to night owls. The Ringed Planet reaches opposition, its closest and brightest of 2022, on the 14th. Still, as morning twilight begins from the 1st to the 3rd, look for bright Mars, now at magnitude 0, halfway between far-apart Venus, low in the east, and Jupiter, nicely up in the south. On these mornings, binocular users can easily see green Uranus next to orange Mars. On the 14th, the Moon is near Jupiter. On the 19th, look for the Moon closely above Mars, a gorgeous conjunction that is at its highest at dawn. On the 25th, the crescent Moon hovers above Venus, with the Moon to the planet's lower left on the next morning.

Aug. 2022: Temp. 69 degrees (avg.); precip. 5" (1" above avg.). 1-8 T-storms, cool. 9-13 Sunny, cool. 14-17 T-storms, cool. 18-21 Sunny, turning hot. 22-31 Scattered t-storms, warm.

Farm Bureau Garden

The hot summer weather will continue through August. This time of year, we will be seeing those tasty summer veggies that every gardener looks forward to. The Farm Bureau Garden has so far provided us with zucchini, eggplant, beets, basil, sage, and chives.

Each month we will be picking a Pinterest recipe based on the ripe vegetables from our garden. We used zucchini this month. Keep an eye out for our next healthy recipe and if our readers at home have the same harvest, we recommend trying out our suggested recipes with your garden vegetables. Even if you don't have these in your back yard, there are many farmers markets right here in DuPage County that sell a variety of delicious fruits and vegetables.

At right are our garden-fresh zucchini boats. They were delicious!

Grilled Caprese-Stuffed Zucchini Boats

Total time – 30 mins • Servings – 4 servings

Ingredients

- 1 cup grape tomatoes, quartered
- 2 cloves garlic, finely minced
- 2/3 cup (3 ounces) fresh mozzarella cheese, cut into small cubes
- 1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 teaspoons dried Italian seasoning
- 5 to 6 large fresh basil leaves, sliced into thin ribbons, plus 2 to 3 leaves for garnish
- 1/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil, divided
- 1 teaspoon salt, divided
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, divided
- 2 (8 to 10-inch) zucchinis
- 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar, optional

Method

Preheat the grill: If using a gas grill heat it to 350°F. If using a charcoal grill you want it hot enough so you can hold your hand a couple of inches above the grate for 4 to 5 seconds.

Make the caprese stuffing: In a medium bowl, add the tomatoes, garlic, mozzarella, parmesan, Italian seasoning, basil, 1/4 cup of extra virgin olive oil, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon black pepper. Toss to combine and set aside to marinate while preparing the zucchini.

Prepare the zucchini for the grill: Slice the zucchini in half lengthwise. Do not trim the ends. Use a metal spoon to scoop out the seeds. Brush the hollowed-out zucchini with the remaining 1 tablespoon of extra virgin olive oil. Season them with remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, if desired.

Grill the zucchini: Place the zucchini halves cut side-down on the grill. Close the lid and cook for 5 to 10 minutes, checking them after 5 minutes, until browned and slightly softened. You do not want the zucchini to become too charred or overcooked. Use tongs to transfer the zucchini onto a dish skin side-down.

Stuff the zucchini: Fill each zucchini with the caprese stuffing.

Return the zucchini to the grill: Using tongs transfer the stuffed zucchini back onto the grill, skin side-down. Close the lid and grill for 5 to 10 minutes, until the mozzarella is melted. Check for doneness after 5 minutes.

Serve warm: Drizzle the zucchini boats with balsamic vinegar and sprinkle with additional fresh basil, if desired.

Beefing up the freezer stocks

Every summer, we defrost the 30-cubic-foot chest freezer, pulling its contents and removing the frosty ice chunks in preparation for the annual supply of beef from our family farm. We receive up to 200 pounds of steaks, roasts and ground products by August, all harvested, processed and frozen by our local family butcher. Since my ability to chew ground beef, I have dined on "freezer beef," or local-sourced beef in bulk quantities equivalent to a quarter, half or whole animal raised on the farm.

On our farm, we raise cattle like Grandpa did – from birth on both grass and grain, providing a combination of flavor and quality that is signature of American-raised beef. The main difference: We raise beef more efficiently with improved genetics and growth technologies. Within the last 60 years, the U.S. beef industry has reduced emissions per pound of beef by more than 40% while producing 60% more beef per animal, according to the National Cattlemen's Beef Association. A top protein source, beef also supplies 10 essential nutrients like iron, zinc and B-vitamins. And cattle farmers care, making beef a meal choice to feel great about.

My family does. On weekends, a couple chuck roasts smoke low and slow for nine hours for a barbecue-inspired meal. I equally love my time-saving microwave cooker, which takes a pound of ground beef from frozen to browned in 7.5 minutes for a quick taco meal. Under-rated for nutrition, ground beef contains eight times more Vitamin B12, six times more zinc and more than two times more iron compared to chicken.

While we may feast on our own farm-raised beef, so do those who shop grocery stores or dine at restaurants. We raise only a couple calves to process locally for freezer beef. Most of our cattle are sold at market, destined as beef for restaurants and grocery stores, providing the nutrition-packed protein for those who lack the space or desire to buy beef in bulk.

While grocery store shoppers have the option to buy certain cuts repeatedly, we live on the variety and quantity of steaks, roasts and ground products that cut from a quarter of the animal. That means the deep freezer in the garage dictates home-cooked meals around our house. We welcome the annual summertime replenishment of freezer beef, which resets the menu.
